War News Today

The Bull continues to proceed cautiously regularly from one day to another, like a hero of old, and now that the triple bomb has exploded without a body, he faces grave danger in the possibility that Spain will be permitted to invade Greece and Italy with bases from which to attack Gibraltar.

Spain's continuing is far more serious, as regards the immediate future, than was the reaction of the alliance among Germany, Italy and Japan. The alliance is a thing of which certainly is called upon to frighten but may not be the Spanish danger is singularly but deadly.

Gibraltar long has been called "the key to the Mediterranean" because it controls the narrow straits which form the entrance from the Mediterranean to the Atlantic. Spain and Africa only a few days' march away from the straits, and to Britain's domination of the straits, and that is the danger. One of the foundation stones of the British empire.

Spain's authoritativeness, as was said in Rome today, is that it would be a very grave matter if the axis. He didn't say the Rome-Berlin brotherhood, but he did say that he would claim that Spain was ready to go to war.

(By The Associated Press)

A hint that gas warfare may be the next dread phase of the European conflict was dropped in Berlin today, while Britons took warning of a heralded new crisis in October.

Informed quarters in London looked for a double-barreled turn of events before the onset of winter, an axis drive to capture Britain's rock fortress of Gibraltar, coupled with an Indian summer attempt to invade England.

British Production Minister Lord Beaverbrook's Legion Daily Express declared pointedly that Adolf Hitler is approaching his "supreme moment" in the attack on Gibraltar.

The newspaper said the axis powers would likely attempt to capture Gibraltar in an effort to draw the British home fleet to the Mediterranean, thus leaving the British navy less hazardous for the axis.

Although gas so far has not been used in the present struggle, in contrast to the world war of 1914-18, it is believed that the axis powers are now using it.
